WOMEN AND MEN IN SERBIA:
AT A GLANCE

KEY DEVELOPMENTS IN SERBIA

From the beginning of the year, the Republic of Serbia has witnessed several significant processes regarding reporting and monitoring to the United Nations Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW). Namely, the Government of Serbia submitted the Fourth Report of the Republic of Serbia on the implementation of CEDAW that states major achievements and positive progress regarding gender equality, but also identifies bottlenecks and gaps in the implementation of the Convention. Delegation of the Republic of Serbia, which included all three branches of government, presented the report at the 72nd CEDAW Session in Geneva. Meanwhile, 14 Shadow Reports were prepared and submitted to the Committee by civil society organizations and women’s organizations, thus representing a highly valued indicator on the current state of human and women’s rights in various thematic areas in Serbia, proving the existing dedication and commitment to combat discrimination against women.

To measure progress in the field of gender equality, Serbia’s national gender equality mechanism, the Coordination Body for Gender Equality, has commissioned the evaluation of the National Action Plan (NAP) for the Implementation of the Serbia National Strategy for Gender Equality 2016–2018. With the support of the UN Women Office in Serbia and financial assistance of the European Union, the evaluation, involving over 100 stakeholders, took stock of the following key criteria: relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact, and sustainability. The evaluation will serve as the basis for development of the Action Plan for 2019-2020. Furthermore, as a preparation of marking 25 years since the Beijing Platform for Action, a framework for change, the Government of Serbia has prepared a National Beijing +25 Review taking a stock of the progress achieved under 12 critical areas of concern.

When it comes to changes to the Serbian legislative framework, discussions on the changes to The Law on Financial Support to Families are underway. Even though the Law boarded the scope of beneficiaries of benefits, it decreased the rights of many beneficiaries, including pregnant women, women on maternity leave and parents – the areas that are now set for change after a heated debate. The long awaited Law on Gender Equality has yet to enter the parliamentary procedure.

Serbia has witnessed a rise in violence against women in public discourse. The nature of the violence includes verbal assaults on their work, personal choices, and opinions. As a result, women in the public eye, especially politicians, journalists, activists, are used to brushing off threats of physical violence, rape and horrendous comments about their appearance. Such hate speech is proliferating, notably on the Internet, with daily calls for violence against women and threats showing up in their inboxes and on their social media platforms as they go about their workday. Both online and offline harassment of women hinders the freedom of expression, which negatively affects the democratic process.
COMBATING VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND GIRLS

On April 16, 2019 the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women, UN Women, in cooperation with the Ministry of Interior of the Government of the Republic of Serbia and with financial support of the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and The Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation, Norad, through framework agreement with UNOPS, organized an event launching a new project Improved Safety for Women in Serbia. As many as 90 people gathered to support the beginning of a new project not only with their presence but with wearing pins “You are not alone”, as a symbol of solidarity with victims of gender-based violence.

At the event the Ministry of Interior reiterated their strong commitment of the police to improve the protection of victims of gender-based violence and announced that within the project a new measure of protection of victims of domestic violence will be introduced - a system of bracelets for victims and perpetrators of violence. In addition, event participants had an opportunity to enter the world of virtual reality through an intense study visit is a detailed understanding of the Spanish electronic bracelet system for survivors and perpetrators of gender-based violence as a method of implementing emergency measures, including the necessary procedures and standards for implementation and reporting, as well as the necessary equipment and associated software requirements.

Under this initiative, UN Women Serbia and the Ministry of Interior of the Republic of Serbia will partner with the relevant government institutions and CSOs to advocate for ending violence, increase awareness of the causes and consequences of violence, build capacity of partners and promote the need for changing norms towards advancing gender equality and women’s rights, that would multiply the effects of ongoing initiatives, specifically related to women living in rural areas. In 2019, the project will focus on increasing knowledge and capacities of police officers, justice actors, MPs for introducing and implementing innovative practice for better realization of urgent measures for victim protection against perpetrator of violence, through introducing the bracelet for victim(s) and perpetrator(s) system. To this end, UN Women conducted Comparative Analysis of Electronic Monitoring Systems to Prevent Violence Against Women: Italy, Spain, Georgia and Turkey, examining the project within its regional and European context, along with the identification of possible legal and technical issues by comparing and contrasting how similar systems have been run in other countries. Moreover, UN Women initiated the organization of study visit to Madrid, Spain, which is tentatively scheduled for the month of June. The main goal/objective of the study visit is a detailed understanding of the Spanish electronic bracelet system for survivors and perpetrators of gender-based violence as a method of implementing emergency measures, including the necessary procedures and standards for implementation and reporting, as well as the necessary equipment and associated software requirements.

Under the programme “Ending violence against women: Implementing norms, changing minds”, UN Women with generous support of the European Commission, is gathering 22 women CSOs throughout Serbia and is contributing 1) to better implementation of the legislative and strategic framework towards gender-based discrimination and VAW; 2) exploring new ways for eliminating harmful gender stereotypes; and 3) supporting women CSOs in their efforts to improve policies and practices for all women in need, with specific focus to ones discriminated based on several grounds. The main achievements in this period include:

1. CSOs Women Space on behalf or Roma Women Network, and SOS Network of Vojvodina, with support of the programme prepared the Shadow reports and lobbied with the CEDAW to recognize and capture the most urgent and most important shortcomings in the legislative, policy and practices level women in Serbia are facing in the Concluding observations. In March 2019 CEDAW issued the Concluding observations to the IV Periodic report of Serbia, capturing most of the recommendations from women CSOs. To ensure implementation of the Concluding observations by all relevant Government bodies, UN Women partner SOS Network of Vojvodina organized a high-level conference in partnership with Coordinating Body for Gender Equality, attended by Deputy Prime Minister and President of CBGE, Director of the Office for Human and Minority Rights, EU Delegation to Ser-bria, UN Women and CSOs partners to discuss urgent actions related to the implementation of CEDAW recommendations to Serbia (total of 84 recommendations grouped under 32 clusters). The conference served as an introduction to the process of developing a matrix of status and progress indicators for monitoring the implementation for each of the CEDAW recommendations to Serbia. The matrix will be prepared in the consultative process lead by SOS Network Vojvodina during June and July. Once completed, the matrix will be presented to the Government Council for Monitoring the Implementation of Ratified HR Conventions formed by the Office for Human and Minority Rights. The indicators developed by CSOs should be compared with the state developed ones, to allow extracting the core values for monitoring by both parties to access progress during the next 4 years (V Periodic report of RS to CEDAW is due in 2023).

Moreover, UN Women partners under this initiative were one of the key informants to GREVI0 mission to Serbia held in February-March 2019, while Shadow reports were also submitted to GREVI0 on the independent views of women CSOs on the implementation of Istanbul Convention. Results of these activities will be visible once the Baseline Evaluation Report to Serbia is published by GREVI0 (January 2020).

2. The partnership with two CSOs has been established for exploring the new approaches aimed at changing the behaviors of selected communities towards VAW by applying Communications for behaviors change methodology - COMBI. UN Women provided two in-depth trainings for its partners: CSO Fenomena from Kraljevo and CSO Center for Modern Skills from Belgrade in developing COMBI plans and for their initiatives. In the upcoming period, Fenomena will focus on local media houses and journalists to influence on less stereotypical and sensationalistic reporting on VAW, while Center for Modern Skills will work with the young men on reducing harmful gender stereotypes.

3. To improve policies and/or services towards VAW, UN Women and its partners worked on several grounds:

- Due to high number of femicides in Serbia (annually, number varies from 30-40 women killed by their intimate partners), UN Women in partnership with women CSOs Gender Knowledge Hub, FemPlatz and Research Center Nis have gathered wide range of stakeholders such as: centers from social work, judiciary, municipal and regional prosecution offices, health care institutions and service providers [both civil society organizations and state-run services for women survivors of violence] to strengthen their performance and ensure better response and case management. As a result of this work, the first ever model for femicide review investigation was developed to ensure femicide cases are systematically recorded and trends regularly monitored to serve to the creation of the targeted actions for prevention and elimination of femicide;

- Ratification of the Istanbul convention obliged the Republic of Serbia to establish Rape Crises Centers that provide comprehensive support and services to women victims of sexual violence. To respond to this requirement, UN Women and UNTF EVAW in partnership with the Provincial Government of Vojvodina and specialized CSOs pioneered this work in Serbia. As a result, in 2017, seven Centers for Victims of Sexual Violence (CVSV) were established within the general hospitals, one in each District of the Vojvodina province. CVSV are specialized in providing immediate medical care, high-quality forensic practice and crisis intervention. Victims in one place receive all necessary help and support for free: medical, legal, counseling and social and educational services [psycho-social support, psychotherapy]. However, services provided by CVSV were not taking into consideration the specific needs of women with disabilities victims of sexual violence, thus, through this programme, UN Women supported CSO Eiz kru-ga Vojvodina to develop the specific guidelines for providing services to the cases of sexual violence against women with disabilities. Moreover, the trainings for all CVSV staff were provided to sensitize them on specificities in providing complex services to women with disabilities victims of sexual violence;

- Regardless the increased number of reported cases of violence against women in Serbia based on Ministry of Interior statistics since legislation improvements in 2017, the violence against women in rural areas remains underreported due to specific living circumstances in traditional communities where patriarchal values and gender stereotypes are predominant. To respond to this gap, UN Women in partnership with women CSO Pecenik/ Sandglass and six other small local women CSOs from Central Serbia developed wide range of actions targeting specifically women living in rural areas to raise their awareness and recognize violence, focusing mainly on specific forms of violence [psychological violence, economic violence, stalking, forced marriage, sexual violence including marriage rape], as well as improvement of the reporting mechanisms and system of protection in place. Actions include the establishment of an institute of “women of trust”, different workshops, but also improvement of the availability and accessibility of general and specialized services in the rural areas.
SUPPORT TO PRIORITY ACTIONS FOR GENDER EQUALITY IN SERBIA

As part of the project “Support to Priority Actions for Gender Equality in Serbia”, the Gender Equality Facility Serbia, funded by the European Commission within the Instrument for Pre-Accession Assistance (IPA) II, UN Women supports the Government of the Republic of Serbia in effective implementation of the EU Gender Equality Acquis and the National Strategy for Gender Equality 2016-2020 by contributing to the specific measures of the National Action Plan for Gender Equality 2016-2018 and through support to women CSOs.

UN Women supported eight (8) local self-governments/Local Gender Equality Mechanisms, from Municipality of Aleksinac, Municipality of Knjazevac, City of Krusevac, City of Sabac, Municipality of Temerin, Municipality of Tutin, City of Uzice and Municipality of Zitiste, that were implementing measures and activities from adopted Local Action Plan on Gender Equality. As result of this support, 450 women were trained for women entrepreneurship; product placement and IT support; and agricultural and business development. Women from 2 LSG had chance to exhibit their products and to participate at the local fairs, 2 handbooks were developed as a guideline for women entrepreneurship. In total, more than 600 women entrepreneurs and agricultural producers, women from the labour market, rural women and women in need had opportunity to improve their knowledge and to develop new skills to advance their position for economic empowerment.

Heaving in mind the valuable results of this support, UN Women will enlarge the number of local self-governments/Local Gender Equality Mechanisms that will support in 2019, with additional 12 LSG.

In the reporting period, UN Women organised Annual Conference of Local Gender Equality Mechanisms on 7 December 2018. The idea was to gather National GEMs, gender focal points from line ministries and local GEMs to exchange the knowledge and experiences, and to share best practices in implementing gender equality at the local level. As many as 120 participants (113 women and 7 men) from 74 local self-governments from Serbia got together to hear new information on the processes at the national level, which are of importance for the implementation of the principles for Gender Equality, to promote best practice examples in the work of local mechanisms for Gender Equality and to exchange experience, lessons learned and the ways of overcoming obstacles across the work of Gender Equality bodies at the local level.

On the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the adoption of the Beijing Platform for Action, together with Coordination Body for Gender Equality of the Government of Serbia, UN Women organized a Technical Working Group meeting aimed to support preparation of the National Review on few key criteria. The main goal was to detect results which the Government of Serbia and its partners achieved during the three years of the implementation of the National strategy for gender equality for the period 2016-2020 and the accompanying Action Plan. The evaluation produced a number of recommendations for the government and various stakeholders, with the aim to provide systematic insights in the implem-tation process and achieved results and to provide recommendations for the second phase of implementation of the Strategy.

To support the efforts of the Government of the Republic of Serbia to draft a National Action Plan for Gender Equality for the period 2019-2020, UN Women has been providing technical guidance in developing new NAP for GE and to support to facilitate participatory consultation process. The aim of the public consultation meetings was to draft NAP for GE trough consultative process, involving key gender focal points from line ministries, CSO and technical experts for representing the interests of specific groups of women. In addition to public consultations, draft NAP for GE 2019-2020 was sent to all state authorities, who are the bearers and/or partners in the implementation of the activities, with a request to submit their written comments on the proposed draft. A total of 18 stakeholders, mostly ministries, provided very useful comments and suggestions regarding the measures and activities planned in the draft NAP for GE 2019-2020.

UN Women supported gender mainstreaming of the annual IPA 2019-2020 action documents and developed gender annexes for the human resources and social development, environment, DRR, rule of law and competitiveness sectors. UN Women in cooperation with NALED (National alliance for local economic development) prepared four gender analyses of programmes and measures implemented by Serbian Development Agency, Innovation Fund, as well as local programs and budgets providing financial and non-financial support to micro, small and medium-sized businesses (MSMEs) and civil society organizations. The analyses identified gender gap in access to finance, sectors of support and various administrative burdens.

UN Women supported the economic empowerment of women through partnership with women’s civil society organizations, with the aim to encourage women’s entrepreneurship and enhance the position of rural women. This benefited 215 women from 14 municipalities across Serbia who took part in business, ICT and occupational trainings, mentorship programs, and received equipment needed for initiating or developing their businesses. In addition, as a result of provided support, women established two women’s associations for the first time in their respective municipalities, recognizing the importance of networking and exchanging experiences for women’s economic empowerment.

UN Women continued to support the process of gender responsive budgeting (GRB) implementation and institutionalization, in cooperation with the Ministry of Finance, the Coordination Body for Gender Equality and the Provincial Secretariat of Finance. According to the Annual Plan for GRB introduction issued by the Minister of Finance in March 2019, 47 national and 26 provincial budget users will introduce gender perspective in their respective budgets for 2020. In a bid to further institutionalize GRB, UN Women supported the State Audit Institution to include GRB planning and implementation as part of their Annual Plan of Audits, thus enhancing monitoring and evaluation of GRB implementation. According to the GRB Progress Report developed by UNWomen, 53 budget users at national and provincial level applied GRB in their 2019 budgets.
BEIJING +25 NATIONAL REVIEW

In 2020, the global community will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Fourth World Conference on Women and adoption of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action (1995). A five-year milestone will be reached towards achieving the Sustainable Development Goals of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. 2020 is therefore a pivotal year for the accelerated realization of gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls, everywhere.

The United Nations Commission on the Status of Women [CSW] will carry out in its sixty-fourth Session an appraisal of the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action (PoA) and the outcomes of the twenty-third Special Session of the General Assembly. The review will include an assessment of current challenges that affect the implementation of the Platform for Action and the achievement of gender equality and the empowerment of women and its contribution towards the full realization of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

The sixty-fourth session of the CSW will take place at the United Nations Headquarters in New York in March 2020. Representatives of Member States, UN entities, and ECOSOC-accredited non-governmental organizations (NGOs) from all regions of the world are invited to attend the session.

UN Women Programme Office in Serbia has been supporting the work of the Coordination Body for Gender Equality of the Government of Serbia to prepare a national report on progress made towards the implementation of the Beijing Platform for Action. The National Review Report is based on consolidated inputs by various national partners, non-governmental actors and UN informants within Serbia, which will then be fed into a regional report. The regional report, to be based on national reviews conducted by each of the UN member countries, will then feed into a global report to be consolidated by CSW Secretariat at UN Women in time for the CSW 64th Session which the Secretary General will present to the General Assembly.

Furthermore, the UN Women Programme Office in Serbia is supporting the facilitation of the Beijing 25+ National Review to ensure gender perspective is consistently applied throughout the project indicators, targets and activities.

GENDER AND CLIMATE CHANGE

For the very first time, UN Women Serbia participated at the UNFCCC Conference of Parties COP24, which took place from December 2-14, 2018 in Katowice, Poland. UN Women coordinated the presentation of achieved results on mainstreaming gender into climate change with UNFCCC Gender Team, leading the organization of Gender Day at COP24. Gender Day was organized on 11 December and took place in and around the Climate Action Hub, a space designed for open, dynamic exchange and innovative formats. In addition to participating at the mini-Market Place and Exhibition space, UN Women hosted an event within the Climate Action Hub in the form of a TED-style talks with presentation of concrete climate action including demonstrations, presenting capacity building and monitoring initiative within the Ministry of Environmental Protection of the Republic of Serbia. During the Gender Day, UN Women Serbia also had its booth where attending stakeholders to improve support and implementation of the Platform for Action (PoA) and the outcomes of Beijing Declaration.

In 2019, UN Women Serbia took part in the Regional Forum on Sustainable Development in the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE) Region, held in March 2019 in Geneva.

The findings of the Survey on Household Waste Management in Serbia, conducted by UN Women in 2018, showed that women are the main “agents of change” of habits of the entire family and are the key protagonists of the current recycling activities (68%) in Serbian households. They are also more prone to change their daily routine towards more sustainable lifestyles (61%) and much more willing to share the information about benefits of recycling and waste reduction within their communities. This is the main gender-based difference in habits and attitudes of citizens of Serbia in relation to household waste management. For this reason, UN Women Serbia, in collaboration with partnering organizations, conceived and realized an awareness-raising campaign BE THE AGENT OF CHANGE IN YOUR ENVIRONMENT, targeting specifically women and their capacity to induce changes in themselves, their households, and their immediate surroundings. The campaign was realized in November and December 2018, as a digital media campaign and a press awareness raising event. To additionally support the impact of the digital campaign, an event was organized in collaboration with IKEA Serbia, on February 22nd. The event was aimed at informing the press, as well as bloggers and influencers, of the Survey findings and the on-going campaign.

By inviting bloggers and influencers to take the pledge and share the campaign, UN Women aimed at introducing the proposed changes as the “new cool”, playing into the global conversation on environment protection. The event was consisting of four components: Information, Education, Call for action and Networking.

Moreover, the Republic of Serbia has been recognized as an example of good practice when it comes to gender mainstreaming of environmental actions and as such presented at the Regional Forum on Sustainable Development in UNECE Region, held in March 2019 in Geneva.
MENTORING PROGRAMME FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS WITH DISABILITIES

Mentoring Programme for Women and Girls with Disabilities, established by UN Women within the framework of a joint project Autonomy, Voice and Participation of Persons with Disabilities, as a main goal has supporting different age (from 21 to 32), with different mentors jointly selected 10 mentees and agreed on the mentoring pairs. Mentees are of different age [from 21 to 32], with different background and living circumstances, different types of disability [however, type of disability was not a determining criterion for the selection]. One mentee lives in one big residential institution and she is deprived of legal capacity (her guardian is an employee in the centre for social work). Also, one mentee lives in a supported living arrangement. Others live with their families. Three mentees are university graduates, others completed secondary or primary schools. In the following period, until June 2019, mentors and mentees will hold individual mentoring sessions [at least five] that can be held online or offline.

In addition, UN Women commissioned a research that mapped women and girls with disabilities at top management positions within DPOs and women CSOs in the Republic of Serbia, identified challenges they face and their training needs in order to strengthen their capacities to obtain leadership positions within the DPOs and women CSOs. Challenges and obstacles that women with disabilities face on their personal path to advancement are primarily related to the type of organisational culture, the system of internal shared support, teamwork standards and working atmosphere. The need for balancing work with personal abilities and values of women with disabilities should be treated as a cross-cutting theme. Women believe that this approach is the only way forward that helps women to aim for and achieve leadership positions.

Overall, the mapping confirmed the need for strategic action towards building motivation of women with disabilities to be actively included in the work of their organisations and generating their aspiration and ambition to take up senior leadership positions.

Based on the actual capacity gaps of women with disabilities in leadership/management positions and the need for support from the existing and future women with disabilities leaders, the following key directions for systematic capacity building programmes have been identified: a) awareness of disability-based and gender-based discrimination within the broader human rights framework, followed by the process of building self-awareness and self-acceptance; b) assertiveness, confidence, public speaking and presentation skills in combination with psychological support in achieving higher confidence; c) organisational management skills that include general management, strategic orientation, planning, human resource development, fundraising and a similar standard set of skills.

The mapping especially emphasizes that building self-esteem, confidence and trust in personal abilities and values of women with disabilities should be treated as a cross-cutting theme. Women believe that this approach is the only way forward that helps women to aim for and achieve leadership positions.

Two training sessions were organized for the selected mentors where they gained skills and understood tools necessary for building of a relationship with the mentee and advanced their knowledge and skills necessary for conducting and realizing mentoring programme for women with disabilities [values, principles, steps through realization, communication and active listening]. After a public call for mentees was announced in February, UN Women together with the mentors jointly selected 10 mentees and agreed on the mentoring pairs. Mentees are of different age [from 21 to 32], with different
DE-PATHOLOGIZATION OF TRANSGENDER IDENTITY: REVISED INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF DISEASES (ICD 11)

By the endorsement of the ICD 11 by World Health Assembly members, transgender identity was removed from the list of mental health diseases in the last week of May 2019. In this regard, UN Human Rights Team in Serbia, jointly with UNFPA in Serbia and ERA (LGBTI Equal Rights Association for Western Balkans and Turkey), with the support of WHO in Serbia and Ministry of Health, organized initial discussion regarding national implementation of those changes, in the aim of supporting relevant State authorities in their work to de-pathologize transgender on the national level. This discussion gathered all relevant representatives of different State institutions which mandate is to support, help, protect and legally recognize transgender population, as well as representatives of LGBTI CSOs and transgender community in order to create an open and inclusive dialogue and to establish strong future cooperation on the national implementation of ICD 11.

MONITORING AND MEASURING IMPLEMENTATION OF UN HUMAN RIGHTS RECOMMENDATIONS

Through its support to the Platform of CSOs for Interaction with the UN Human Rights Mechanisms, UN Human Rights in Serbia continued the hands-on interactive process of producing human rights indicators for monitoring the recommendations stemming from review of Serbia by UN committees on the elimination of discrimination against women (CEDAW), rights of persons with disabilities (CRPD) and from the Universal Periodic Review (UPR). Together with roadmaps guiding the national implementation of these recommendations, indicators will be used not only to measure the State’s progress in human rights implementation, but also presented to the Government as expert and policy support from the civil society.

SWISS PRO SUPPORT TO ENHANCEMENT OF GENDER EQUALITY AT LOCAL LEVEL

The Swiss PRO Programme has conducted in the period from November 2018 to March 2019 a snapshot assessment of the institutional status and existing capacities of the local self-governments (LSGs) and Gender Equality Mechanisms (GEMs) in 99 LSGs in the Programme Area of Responsibility 1, as well as the availability of local GE action plans (GELAPs).

The assessment showed that the lack of procedures for institutionalisation of GEMs is the key obstacle for development of GEMs and that further support should focus on their capacity building, development and implementation of local action plans for gender equality, collecting gender statistics, consultation with women in local communities and gender mainstreaming of local policies.

Local GEMs are poorly visible, not recognised in local structures and not consulted during policy making processes, budget planning and drafting of other documents that would contribute to the gender mainstreaming at the local level.

The institutional framework and position of GEMs could be improved in part by their participation in the decision-making processes at the local level, and by providing required comments/opinion and guidelines, based on gender segregated data and consultations with women in local communities.

The institutional framework and position of GEMs could be improved in part by their participation in the decision-making processes at the local level, and by providing required comments/opinion and guidelines, based on gender segregated data and consultations with women in local communities. On the other side, important local actors-to-be - the informal Local Women Councillors Networks (LWCN), has a potential for advancing the gender equality agenda within the political parties and decision makers. As the assessment showed, LWCNs members need capacity building and mentorship support for advocating gender equality.

In response to the local needs, the Swiss PRO Programme will, in the coming period, provide technical support for establishing and/or strengthening of at least 30 local GEMs and establishing and/or strengthening of at least 30 LWCNs, with the aim of promoting and advocating gender equality, strengthening the local institutional framework for the application of gender equality agenda and enhancing local gender equality policies, which will contribute to a better position and respect for the rights of women and girls.

All established and functional GEMs will have an opportunity to apply for Swiss PRO grants to pilot projects identified as a priority in their local GE action plans, which will be launched in 2020.

1 Programme is implemented in 99 LSGs in the Region of Šumadija and Western Serbia, and the Region of Southern and Eastern Serbia.
HIGHLIGHTS OF UN WORK IN SERBIA

Mainstreaming Gender in Security Sector Reform in the Western Balkans (2019 – 2021) in close cooperation with four Ministries of Defence from Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, Republic of North Macedonia and Republic of Serbia.

In order for both women’s and men’s needs and priorities to be addressed adequately in a society, both need to be involved and represented in the decision-making process, in policy creation and its implementation. This holds true in the security sector as well.

A tremendous amount of work in tackling gender issues in the security sector has been undertaken by the MoDs and AFs of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Republic of North Macedonia, Montenegro and Serbia with the support of UNDP SEEASAC. Build upon successful implementation of the Phase I of the project (completed in 2016), UNDP SEEASAC and regional project partners started to implement Phase II of the project Strengthening of Regional Cooperation on Gender Mainstreaming in Security Sector Reform in the Western Balkans. The objective of the project is to foster regional cooperation on gender equality in the military and ensure consolidation and institutionalization of results achieved during Phase I.

The Phase II will contribute to: 1) Gender responsive and evidence-based policy development and implementation; and 2) Improved Integration of Women in the military through Gender Sensitization.

Support is provided to Gender Equality Mechanisms (GEMs) to further strengthen their capacities for gender mainstreaming in MoDs and AFs through information sharing, knowledge exchange and learning grounded on regional meetings, and support for implementation of small-scale projects. Since the quality and availability of data is a prerequisite for evidence-based policy making, Human Resources Departments will be supported to collect and analyze gender disaggregated data to inform the development of gender sensitive human resources policies. This will be achieved by the organization of regional training and workshops, and provision of technical support for standardization of procedures through development of SOPs. In addition, HR Departments will be supported through technical assistance, training and support for outreach activities, to provide advisory services on gender equality, thereby boosting the implementation of gender equality policies. MoDs and AFs will be supported to address misconduct and unwanted behavior more effectively; their capacities will be strengthened through review of gaps in policies and procedures; development of guidelines, toolkits and provision of training with the aim to influence attitudes and behavior to contribute to a safe and non-discriminatory professional environment for both women and men.

Diverse activities are planned with the aim to contribute to a more gender sensitive organizational culture, free from obstacles to balanced and meaningful participation of women in the defense system. The project will further strengthen the Regional Network of Gender Trainers through provision of regular regional meetings. The meetings of the Network will enable networking, information exchange and knowledge sharing on the various training approaches to increase gender awareness in the military, as well as challenges and lessons identified. They will in turn deliver national level gender awareness activities for soldiers, NCOs and officers and thus increase gender sensitization of military personnel; and a Regional Train-the-Trainers Programme to expand the existing Regional Network of Trainers. In order to facilitate the integration of a gender perspective in military training and education and thus ensure a systematic approach to gender sensitization in the military, technical support will be provided for gender training of curriculum developers and teaching staff in military training and education institutions (Military Academy/Officers training; NCO; basic military training). In addition, support for curricula revision will be provided through 4 pilots involving analysis and workshops, to create capacities for systematic integration of the gender perspective in military education. To enforce the implementation of gender equality policies, decisionmakers and commanders will be targeted though capacity development activities such as the Gender Coach Programme, as well as Commanding officers seminars.

In the Phase II of the Project, SEEASAC has already organized the following activities:

1. The 10th Regional Meeting of Gender Equality Mechanisms in the MoDs and the AFs, which gathered twenty-four representatives of MoDs and AFs. The meeting took place in Montenegro on 19 and 20 February 2019 and enabled: information and knowledge exchange among the MoDs and AFs on the achieved results in gender equality in the military in the region since the completion of the first phase of the project and the remaining challenges; update on ongoing initiatives on gender mainstreaming into the security sector reform and development and harmonization of the annual work plan for 2019 at the national and regional level.

2. Three mapping and planning meetings were organized in Montenegro, BiH and the RNM (8 April, 10 April and 15 April respectively). The meetings were organized with the aims: to map and collect best practices and concrete examples of gender mainstreamed policies/practices in MoDs and AFs; to jointly identify policy and practice gaps and challenges in achieving gender quality in military; and to plan the implementation of project activities.

3. Regional Workshop on combating Gender-based Discrimination, Sexual Harassment and Abuse was organized on 18 and 19 June 2019 in Bosnia and Herzegovina, with the aim to enhance capacities of MoDs and AFs representatives to recognize discrimination and its negative effects as well as to better respond to gender related complaints. The workshop enabled sharing of practices on gender complaints mechanisms in the AFs and initiation of knowledge tool – Regional Manual on combating gender-based discrimination, sexual harassment and abuse.
Joint Project
INTEGRATED RESPONSE TO VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND GIRLS IN SERBIA II

TOWARD BETTER MULTI-AGENCY PROTECTION OF VICTIMS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

• To accelerate implementation of the Law on Preventing Domestic Violence, UNDP and UNFPA in cooperation with the Ministry of Justice continue to provide support to the multi-agency groups for cooperation and coordination. Cooperation among all relevant institutions which place the rights of the victims in the centre of all interventions is mandatory by the Law on Preventing Domestic Violence. It binds the responsibility of three state bodies: police, prosecutors and centres for social work, but also includes other institutions such as health-care and educational system, employment services, and civil society organizations. Though, long-term comprehensive and integrated protection of victims and prevention of repetition of violence is lacking, individual plans of protection and support to the victim are developed in only half of the cases that are processed through multi-sectoral groups for cooperation and coordination. To improve the effectiveness of these multi-agency groups for cooperation and coordination, Ministry of Justice, UNDP and UNFPA trained more than 120 representatives of responsible institutions from Vranje, Bujanovac, Trgoviste, Vladicin Han, Surdulica, Bosilegrad, Pirot, Bela Palanka, Dimitrovgrad and Babunica to provide protection to victims and prevent further violence. As a follow up to the trainings, these professionals are being supported in hands-on learning to assess the risks and develop adequate individual protection plans for victims.
• Ministry of Justice, with the support of UNDP provides monthly information on victims and perpetrators of domestic violence. This information, available on the web-site www.iskljucinasilje.com, is collected from the local prosecutors’ offices and refer to the cases in which the emergency barring orders are extended by the court to 30 days.
• The Ministry of Justice in cooperation with UNDP is also developing a guidance based on professionals’ questions on how to proceed or act in specific situations of domestic violence.

LEAVING NO ONE BEHIND – WOMEN FROM MULTIPLY DISCRIMINATED GROUPS TOWARDS GREATER ACCESSIBILITY OF SERVICES

• UN Women, in partnership with the Provincial Secretariat for Social Policy, Demography and Gender Equality, has continued to provide capacity development for professionals from the social protection, police, healthcare, education, prosecutor’s office, judiciary and non-governmental sectors on the a) specificities of working with women from multiple marginalized groups, such as: Roma women, women with disabilities, women living in rural areas and older women, as well as for b) working with women survivors of specific forms of violence as specified in CAHVIO: stalking, sexual violence (including rape), forced marriage and sexual harassment. According to the immediate participants’ feedback, the knowledge gained will help them improve everyday’s work and performance by applying the practical examples they learned about at the trainings, but also to more easily identify common shortcomings in the procedures, as well as the importance of multi-sectorial cooperation and coordination. Detailed external trainings assessment, as well as a % of change in knowledge of the professionals who attended the trainings will be available in September 2019.

In partnership with Roma women CSO “Association of Roma Novi Becej” and with support of prominent gender experts, Case conferences will be organized in 10 selected municipalities in the Province of Vojvodina in June and July 2019.

VIOLENCE AGAINST CHILDREN

• There is no mechanism at the national level that would enable systematic monitoring of effects of the measures taken to prevent violence against children and students in educational institutions. In order to develop a mechanism to monitor violence in schools aimed at supporting schools to combat violence, UNICEF in partnership with the Ministry of Education, Science and Technological Development (MoESTD) conducted an analysis of data collection and reporting on violence against children in educational institutions. In partnership with the MoESTD, the Center for Interactive Pedagogy and UNICEF will provide capacity building of the network for support to schools to develop safe environment for children and prevention of violence. In April 2019, the Ministry of Education established the network of 80 external advisors who will in cooperation with school advisers from the Regional School Administrations, monitor and support schools and preschools to prevent violence and discrimination. In addition, support will be provided for revision of the materials developed in the framework of the School without Violence Programme, to be used by educational institutions and also for development of a software which will support educational institutions and the Ministry to monitor violence and discrimination in educational institutions and to provide adequate support at all levels.

• The school component of the project was implemented in four mentoring and eight partnering schools (in Belgrade, Sombor, Zaječar and Vranje). A capacity building programme on different tools and techniques to prevent GbV was developed and implemented which included trainings, mentoring and horizontal exchange between institutions. 3578 primary and secondary school students participated in activities promoting gender equality through 476 workshops and 26 local actions. Total of 848 students and 183 teachers and professional associates participated in the final research in March 2019. Results showed positive trends in disagreements with attitudes that reflect gender prejudices, physical / sexual harassment and insulting from 10 to 20% compared to initial research, while the percentage of students in grades 6-8 who don’t approve physical violence against girls increased to 63% and students who don’t approve sexual harassment to 62%.

• Based on the analysis of online research, school teams defined priorities and actions in school’s yearly annual plans for further improvement in combating gender-based violence.

• Four pre-school institutions from Belgrade, Sombor, Vranje and Zaječar have participated in the program Kindergarten as a Safe and Enabling Environment for Learning and Development, that promotes safe, secure and stimulating environment in which each child has equal opportunities for learning. Along with the training which through 5 modules addressed the topics related to respecting diversity, equality and equity in the kindergarten, socio-emotional learning in support of the development of constructive relationships in the peer community, the role of the educators and family in building a safe, supportive and stimulating environment in kindergarten mentorship and horizontal exchanges have been provided to enhance the program implementation. Around 130 preschool staff from 4 kindergartens participated directly in these activities and preschools made plans to disseminate the programme to other kindergartens within their institutions.

CHILDMARRIAGE

UNICEF in Serbia continued the implementation of the programme towards ending child marriage in Serbia in three localities: Novi Bečej, Belgrade and Pirot. The program includes joint actions in cooperation with Roma women’s organisations, relevant national and local institutions in the sectors of social welfare and education. Activities with girls and their mothers and fathers in selected Roma communities are based on the results of the baseline research that informed intervention profiling and indicators for evaluation of change. Working with schools in the vicinity of girls-at-risk-of-child-marriage contributed to raising awareness of early warning signals for school drop-out and support to girl’s education. Further support has been planned to local level network in selected municipalities to answer the specific challenges of each Roma community, upscale work in the whole community, including Roma boys and men, and facilitate intersectoral collaboration in prevention and response.

The National Coalition for ending child marriage has been established on 21 February and includes 21 organizations and institutions devoted to ending the detrimental practice of child marriage in Serbia. The National Coalition will work on creating safe options for girls of Roma nationality and towards empowering Roma boys and girls, women and men to change the existing practice. The overall goal of the Coalition is to contribute to ending child marriages in Serbia, especially in the Roma population, through removal of institutional and social barriers to law enforcement and promoting examples of good practice in partnership with local communities, non-governmental, governmental and private sectors and the media. The Coordination Body for Gender Equality co-chairs the work of the National Coalition jointly with Roma women NGO Ternipe.

ACTION AGAINST GENDER-BASED VIOLENCE AFFECTING REFUGEE AND MIGRANT WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Within the framework of the implementation of the Phase II of the Bureau of Population, Refugees and Migration (PRM) funded regional project “Action Against Gender-based Violence Affecting Refugee and Migrant Women and Children”, approximately 1400 individuals at risk or survivors of GBV, benefitted from GBV services across Bulgaria, Greece, Italy, and Serbia. As of end of April, UNICEF Serbia has reached 398 individuals (27 being women, 15 being girls, 8 being boys) with dedicated GBV prevention and response services through two Women and Girls Safe Spaces and 3 Child Friendly/Youth Spaces. Approximately 314 frontline workers were trained in the whole region: in Serbia 38 frontline staff [29 women and 9 men] were trained on GBV prevention, identification, referral and/or care. Special attention is currently drawn to setting up a pool of 13 national trainers who can deliver child protection and gender-based violence in emergencies integrated training, making use of a UNICEF 4-days curriculum currently under accreditation process with the Republican Institute for Social Protection. Finally, UNICEF is focusing on understanding more Unaccompanied and Separated Girls identification and specific needs. Since 2017, UNICEF and partners realized that available resources that focus specifically on the numbers, patterns and experiences of unaccompanied and separated asylum seekers, refugee and migrant girls in Europe, are scarce. Initial information indicates that girls tend to be more invisible than their male counterparts, tend to travel with other families or adults, as well to self-identify, at times due to external pressure, as over 18 to avoid entering protective mechanisms. Therefore, a desk review and consultation with 46 experts [12 from Serbia] were organized and an identification tool was elaborated, still in a draft form.

PROMOTING ENGAGEMENT OF FATHERS IN EARLY CHILD DEVELOPMENT - TRANSFORMING TRADITIONAL GENDER ROLES

Within the programme that is supporting quality provision of early childhood development services, through improved health and other system’s response to parents of young children, additional focus has been given to the most vulnerable populations and engagement of fathers. The communication and education package developed is promoting fathers’ engagement in nurturing care — from health, nutrition, early stimulation and play. The second phase of the early childhood development campaign “Early Moments Matter” will have its peak in the month of June, globally announced as a Parenting Month. Throughout the campaign, and particularly on the 16th of June, celebrated as Father’s Day, UNICEF in partnership with policy makers, institutions, organizations, businesses and communities will be promoting the importance and benefits of mother’s and father’s involvement in early childhood development. In Serbia, the campaign is organized jointly with line ministries [health, education, social welfare and the Ministry of demography and population policy] under the slogan “Positive Parenting – A Gift for a Lifetime”.
